CHIEF OF NAVY SINGS PRAISES OF ALL ARMS

American Submarines Taking Large Toll Of Jap Ships Throughout Pacific

PLEASED BY INSPECTION

Hard To Tell Difference Between Soldiers, Sailors, Marines In Fighting

PEARL HARBOR, Oct. 14—

Admiral Chester W. Nimitz declared today that he had complete confidence in the outcome of the fighting against the Japs in the Solomon islands and reported that American submarines were taking a large toll of Japanese ships throughout the Pacific.

"I am satisfied in every way by what I saw on a recent quick air trip to the Solomons and other islands," the commander-in-chief of the Pacific fleet said in granting one of his rare interviews.

Admiral Nimitz said he flew to the South Pacific area to familiarize himself with actual conditions "and to see with my own eyes the things I had read and heard."

Successful Tour

He said his tour of inspection was very successful and added he found United States forces in a state of high morale and cheerfulness. Particularly was this so in the case of the American Marines occupying Guadalcanal island under command of Major General Alexander A. Vandegrift where the leathernecks are working hard to improve the positions they now hold.

"I have always been optimistic about the results in the Solomons," Nimitz said, "and after seeing people on the spot I have reason to continue that optimism. Although we do not have the upper hand and the Japs are not on the run I have the utmost faith and confidence as a result of personally seeing we will be able to complete consolidation of our position and start moving ahead."

Admiral Nimitz said he had visited various island positions (Continued on Page Two)

HUMOROUS YEGG LEAVES CARD BY MISTAKE; JAILED

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 14—Five men, who allegedly scribbled "this... thing is scrap for the Japs" on a safe they could not open in a chain store, were captured because one of the men dropped his draft card at the scene, police reported today.

Authorities further charged the suspects with 20 safe robberies during the last year and the stripping of "at least 200 automobiles." The five men were named as: Vincent Righter, 21, Frank Doughty, 27, Joseph Marsh, 31, William Nolan, 22, and Earl Lutz, all of Philadelphia.

One of the type used so successfully by the British in their raids over Germany, a 4,000-pound demolition bomb is examined by Brig. Gen. G. M. Barnes left, and Maj. Gen. L. H. Campbell before being taken aloft at Aberdeen proving grounds, Maryland, for a test. These bombs acquired the term "block busters" because reconnaissance photos show they can devastate an entire city block.

FRAU HESS ASKS TO JOIN HERR

House Of Commons Startled By New Light On Mystery About Captive Nazi

LONDON, Oct. 14—The startling disclosure that Frau Hess, wife of Nazi Leader Rudolf Hess, has asked British authorities for permission to join her husband, was made in the House of Commons today by Laborite William James Thorne.

Thorne said he would ask the foreign secretary whether any reply is being made to Frau Hess' request to share the exile of her husband who is in custody "somewhere in England."

Recent Vichy reports stated that Frau Hess had applied through the Red Cross for permission to come to England to be with her husband who dropped out of the skies on Scotland shortly before Hitler launched his attack on Russia.

But today's announcement by Thorne was the first official intimation that such a request had been put formally before the British government.

Prime Minister Churchill and other government spokesmen have consistently refused to discuss the mysterious Hess affair, and only a few high officials know where he is in custody.

Thorne said he would ask the foreign office "what reply is being made to the request of Frau Hess to join her husband."

Hess was the No. 2 Nazi under Hitler and leader of the National Socialist party until he made his dramatic descent upon Scotland.

Whether he came with or without the consent of Hitler has never been definitely answered. The most commonly held theory was that Hess hoped to persuade English leaders to make peace with Hitler on condition that Germany would abandon the war in the West and turn on Russia.

JUNK DEALER TRIES GUN WHEN TIRE PLEA FAILS

ATLANTIC CITY, Oct. 14—William Dangerfield, 27-year-old Negro junk dealer, was in jail today following his alleged attempt to shoot five members of the Atlantic City rationing board who thrice refused him supplementary gasoline and tire allotments.

Making a final appeal, Dangerfield appeared at the board office late yesterday and when told that his case was being taken under advisement, he produced a .38 calibre revolver and fired five shots at as many members of the board, police said. Fortunately all of the board members ducked for cover and none was hit.

Police said investigation disclosed Dangerfield also had failed to register for the draft.

ONE MAN'S OPINION

Flash—President's special envoy visits Vatican!

Flash — President's attorney general takes Italians in United States off "enemy" alien list!

Flash—Something's cooking!

Flash—It could be Mussolini's goose!

King Victor Emmanuel never has been a Mussolini red-hot.

Neither has the Pope.

It could be that the King laid out the proposition to enlist support of the United States for a home program to give Il Duce the boot.

Anyhow, we know that Myron Taylor went to the Vatican and that after his visit, the "enemy" alien regulations in the United States were waived for Italians.

It could be that October 12, 1942 was a very important day in the war.

Thought for the day: Paste it in your hat.

WLB Called To Conference After Refusing Increase To Ford Workers

WASHINGTON, Oct. 14—As the War Labor Board prepared to issue a keynote opinion denying a general wage increase for 115,000 Ford workers, the WLB and treasury experts today went into conference with Economic Chief James F. Byrnes to determine the monetary fate of America's army of salaried employees.

The treasury is expected to place in Byrnes' hands recommendations which will set limits on salaries over $25,000 and define regulations for the control of all other salaries.

Byrnes last week requested the treasury to draft plans for a "broader and more direct control" of all salaries than the control established by President Roosevelt's stabilization order.

Although WLB Chairman William H. Davis declared recently that his board will not rule over salaries under $5,000, Byrnes is understood to favor WLB jurisdiction over at least part of the salaries in that category.

However, treasury sources indicated that the department, "closely related to the administration of the revenue laws," is willing to take over the regulation of all classes of salaries.

The entire membership of the 12-man WLB was called into the conference with Byrnes and the treasury experts.

Meanwhile, in an opinion affirming the WLB's Ford decision, Dean Wayne L. Morse, public member of the board, is reported (Continued on Page Two)

BRUTAL MURDER OF PRIESTS BY JAPS REVEALED

LONDON, Oct. 14—The brutal murder of two Catholic priests and two nuns by Japanese soldiers during their occupation of Guadalcanal island in the Solomons, was disclosed today by the British colonial office.

One of the four victims, all bayoneted through the throat, was Father Arthur Duhamel, 34-year-old Bostonian.

The other victims were Father Henry Engberink, a Hollander, and Sisters Sylvia and Odaya, who were believed to be French. A third nun was reported to have escaped the torturers.

The missionaries were members of the Marist order. Bodies of the victims were found at the village of Tasimbok after U. S. Marines landed on the island August 7 and expelled the Japanese from the more important areas.

CLEAR SAILING PREDICTED FOR YOUTH DRAFT

High Military Officials Called Before Joint Congress Committee

SPEEDY ACTION EXPECTED

Leaders Say Unanimous Vote Will Greet Measure In Lower House Saturday

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON, Oct. 14—Secretary of War Stimson, urging the draft of 18 and 19-year-old youths, today told the House Military Affairs committee that United States' plans call for an army of 7,500,000 men by the end of 1943, including an air force of 2,200,000.

Asserting that he wanted to eliminate the confusion which has been created by "unapproved estimates not from the army itself," Stimson said: "We are planning to build up during 1943:

"1. The largest air force, with sustaining units, which production and transportation will permit, and our estimate is that it will be composed of 2,200,000 men. If there are any changes it will be revised.

"2. We are planning to train and equip large ground units that can be transported overseas, and we expect them to be composed of 3,300,000 men. This figure includes units now already overseas.

"3. We estimate that there also will be 1,000,000 men in training or engaged in training others in the service of supply.

"4. There will be an additional 1,000,000 men actually in the service of supply.

"There are now in the army 4,250,000 men, already inducted. "So, adding together those we now have plus those we intend to have, we will have a force by the end of 1943 of 7,500,000 men."

The Secretary of War termed talk of mass army "silly."

"That is not what we are building at all," he asserted. "This war is not like the last war. This war is a war of maneuverability, and requires highly skilled, and highly trained men."

QUICK CALL FOR COUNTY YOUTHS IS PREDICTED

First of Pickaway county's approximately 500 youths of 18 and 19 will be inducted into military service about a month or 45 days after President Roosevelt signs a bill authorizing their induction, Emmitt L. Crist, chairman of the Pickaway county Selective Service board, said Wednesday, basing his opinion on information received from Chester W. Goble, state draft director.

Ohio has 142,000 boys of 18 and 19, Goble declared.

When youths of 18, 19 and 20 registered in June names of 505 were signed in Pickaway county. Of this group about 100 were classified as 20 year olds ready for service any time they were needed. First of this group will be taken to fill the November call. Since June it is estimated that at least 100 additional youths have reached 18.

The bill, now before Congress, will be rushed through, Colonel Goble indicated in a statement Wednesday in Columbus. After it is signed five days must be allowed for return of questionnaires, about a week for classification by local boards, and two more days for notice of classification to be sent out. A 10-day period allowed by the draft law for appeals must then elapse before the youths can be ordered up for induction. Even then an additional 10-day period following their preliminary physical examination must elapse before they can be sworn in as soldiers.

Bureau Payroll Greater Than That of Army May Be Probed by Congress

WASHINGTON, Oct. 14—Following disclosures that the War department's division establishment has mushroomed until its payroll now exceeds that of the entire Army, there was a strong likelihood today of a full congressional investigation into wartime civilian employment by the federal government.

The disclosures were made before the House Rules Committee during hearings on a resolution by the chairman of the Civil Service Committee, Rep. Ramspeck (D) Ga., calling for an investigation of "top-heavy civilian personnel in the government." The hearing continued today.

Rep. Colmer (D) Miss., a member of the rules committee, asserted during the hearing that the War department now has more than 1,100,000 civilian employees whose payroll is greater than that of the military forces of the army.

Inquiry Asked

Ramspeck's resolution would provide an investigation of the policies and practices of civilian employment in all government agencies and their effects on the progress of the war. The investigation would also seek to uncover whether government agencies are efficient and economical, and whether workers' skills are used to the best advantage.

Ramspeck, a House administration leader, declared that there are many stenographers employed by the War department who are not doing stenographic work, yet that same department is paying young women $105 a month while (Continued on Page Two)

DIVORCE ASKED FROM PACIFIST

John Grubb's Non Fight Stand Subjects Wife To Humiliation, Is Claim

Charging that her husband, John Grubb, is a member of a religious group opposed to war and that because of his declaration that he will not serve his country she has been subjected to criticism, public censure and humiliation, Mrs. Mary Overly Grubb of Pleasant street filed divorce action Wednesday in Pickaway county Common Pleas.

Her husband, whom she married in Circleville in June, 1940, is a brother of Daniel E. Grubb who is now in custody of Army officials for failing to report at the end of a 14-day furlough which followed his service induction. Daniel Grubb declares himself to be a Jehovah's Witness, the same sect in which John Grubb professes membership.

Mrs. Grubb charges in her petition that her husband has told her that he "will refuse to protect his country, will not serve in armed forces of the nation, and will permit himself to be imprisoned rather than bear arms."

Mrs. Grubb charges further that her husband has failed to provide a home for her and that "he would not keep any job and does not desire to do anything that requires physical exertion."

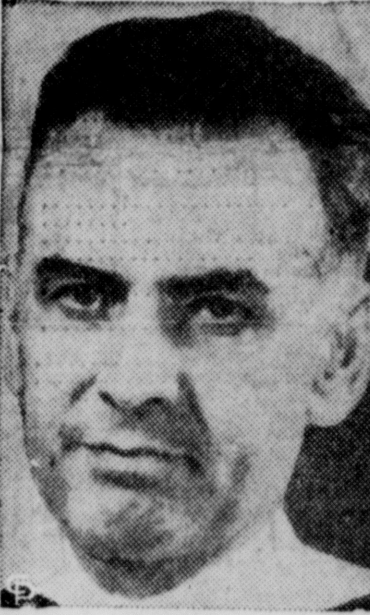

The petition states that Mrs. Grubb left her husband October 7 because of the humiliation caused by her husband's stand. She asks that her maiden name of Overly be restored to her.

APPLE PICKING TILT SOUGHT BY COAST COLLEGE

PULLMAN, Wash., Oct. 14—A new kind of intercollegiate competition to help the war effort, an apple picking contest, became a possibility today with the announcement that Washington State students had challenged the University of Washington to a fruit harvesting battle.

The challenge was issued by Le Roy Bradbury, president of the Washington State student body, at a special assembly where 593 students volunteered to help save the state's apple crop which is threatened by lack of pickers.

Lose Ships but Live

Two skippers whose ships were lost in the opening battle of the Solomons are Capt. F. L. Riefkohl, top, commander of the U. S. S. Vincennes and Capt. William Greenman, commander of the U. S. S. Astoria. The two cruisers were among the three lost when attacked by a Jap flotilla in the Tulagi-Guadalcanal area. Also lost was the Australian cruiser Canberra.

KANSAS LEADS IN PER CAPITA SCRAP EFFORT

NEW YORK, Oct. 14—Kansas led the nation today with the highest per capita contribution to the scrap metal drive in a preliminary report compiled by the National Committee of the Newspapers' United Scrap Metal drive.

Kansas reported 72.2 pounds of metal had been gathered for every man, woman and child in the state. Nevada was a close second reporting 70.3 pounds per capita. Utah was third with 63.6 pounds while Oregon and Rhode Island were tied for fourth place with per capita collections of 55.7 pounds.

The results of collections made thus far were contained in a report prepared by Richard W. Slocum, chairman of the publishers' committee sponsoring the huge salvage program.

The five remaining states of the 10 leaders were separated in the tabulation by less than five pounds per capita. Leading this group was Pennsylvania, with 49.4 pounds per person. Next came New York with 48.9 pounds followed by Ohio, 46.9 pounds; Colorado, 46.4 pounds and Delaware, 45.2 pounds.

JAPS HURT BY LAND, SEA AND AIR ACTIVITIES

New Territory Taken, Bases Blasted And Ten Ships Hit By Yanks

NIP FLEET TAKES PASTING

Many Startling Developments Outlined By Navy In Three Communiques

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON, Oct. 14—U. S. submarines operating in far eastern waters today were credited by the Navy with sinking a heavy Jap cruiser and four other vessels, probably sinking one cargo ship and damaging two more.

The eight ships sunk and damaged brought to more than 18 the number of enemy ships announced within 25 hours as sunk or damaged by air, surface and torpedo action by the United States.

The usual brief communique that accompanies reports on submarine action merely stated that one heavy cruiser, one medium sized cargo ship, one small cargo ship, one small tanker, and a trawler were sunk, one medium sized cargo ship damaged and probably sunk and a large and medium tanker damaged.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 14—America's Pacific offensive team today swung into a faster, more deadly stride, which was reflected by five days of land, sea and air action in the Solomons and Aleutians in which more than 10 Jap ships were blasted, enemy bases hit and new territory captured.

The startling and possibly far-reaching developments were outlined in three Navy communiques in which U. S. Army Navy and Marine Corps land, sea and air forces were credited with the following score in action between October 8 and 12:

In the Solomons: One Jap cruiser, four destroyers and a transport were sunk, one destroyer probably sunk and three cruisers damaged by naval and air action; 15 planes were destroyed; Rekata bay was bombed and strafed; new territory was seized on Guadalcanal in a two-day land offensive.

Action In Aleutians

In the Aleutians: Army Navy bombers escorted by fighter planes rained destruction on enemy ships and shore installations at Kiska in raids October 8-9-10; significantly, no Jap planes took the air to oppose the attacks.

Most of the damage to Japanese ships in the Solomons was done by a task force of the Pacific fleet which struck a mid-night blow against Japanese warships engaged in landing reinforcements on important Guadalcanal island.

In its latest South Pacific communique, the Navy pointed out that a task force of cruisers and destroyers was sent in against the Japanese after persistent air attacks failed to halt the flow of enemy reinforcements.

"At about midnight on the night of October 11-12, this task (Continued on Page Two)

OVERSEAS, BUT ASKS CHANCE TO VOTE LOCALLY

November election to date has attracted little attention from Circleville and Pickaway county voters, but to some of the men in the nation's armed forces it is important. Election board received a letter Wednesday from overseas, Captain Marion (Scotty) Scothorn of Ashville sending a request for a ballot.

The board will mail the ballot to Captain Scothorn although it feels that there isn't time for it to be returned to be cast on election day.

The captain writes that his address is 7th Evacuation Hospital, APO 930, care Postmaster, San Francisco, Cal. He has been in foreign service, but he maintains his interest in the election.

The ballot went into the mail immediately.

QUICK CALL FOR COUNTY YOUTHS IS PREDICTED

First of Pickaway county's approximately 500 youths of 18 and 19 will be inducted into military service about a month or 45 days after President Roosevelt signs a bill authorizing their induction. Emmitt L. Crist, chairman of the Pickaway county Selective Service board, said Wednesday, basing his opinion on information received from Chester W. Goble, state draft director.

Ohio has 142,000 boys of 18 and 19, Goble declared.

When youths of 18, 19 and 20 registered in June names of 505 were signed in Pickaway county. Of this group about 100 were classified as 20 year olds ready for service any time they were needed. First of this group will be taken to fill the November call. Since June it is estimated that at least 100 additional youths have reached 18.

The bill, now before Congress, will be rushed through, Colonel Goble indicated in a statement Wednesday in Columbus. After it is signed five days must be allowed for return of questionnaires, about a week for classification by local boards, and two more days for notice of classification to be sent out. A 10-day period allowed by the draft law for appeals must then elapse before the youths can be ordered up for induction. Even then an additional 10-day period following their preliminary physical examination must elapse before they can be sworn in as soldiers.

Bureau Payroll Greater Than That of Army May Be Probed by Congress

WASHINGTON, Oct. 14—Following disclosures that the War department's division establishment has mushroomed until its payroll now exceeds that of the entire Army, there was a strong likelihood today of a full congressional investigation into wartime civilian employment by the federal government.

The disclosures were made before the House Rules Committee during hearings on a resolution by the chairman of the Civil Service Committee, Rep. Ramspeck (D) Ga., calling for an investigation of "top-heavy civilian personnel in the government." The hearing continued today.

Rep. Colmer (D) Miss., a member of the rules committee, asserted during the hearing that the War department now has more than 1,100,000 civilian employees whose payroll is greater than that of the military forces of the army.

Inquiry Asked

Ramspeck's resolution would provide an investigation of the policies and practices of civilian employment in all government agencies and their effects on the progress of the war. The investigation would also seek to uncover whether government agencies are efficient and economical, and whether workers' skills are used to the best advantage.

Ramspeck, a House administration leader, declared that there are many stenographers employed by the War department who are not doing stenographic work, yet that same department is paying young women $105 a month while (Continued on Page Two)

DIVORCE ASKED FROM PACIFIST

John Grubb's Non Fight
Stand Subjects Wife To Humiliation, Is Claim

Charging that her husband, John Grubb, is a member of a religious group opposed to war and that because of his declaration that he will not serve his country, she has been subjected to criticism, public censure and humiliation, Mrs. Mary Overly Grubb of Pleasant street filed divorce action Wednesday in Pickaway county Common Pleas.

Her husband, whom she married in Circleville in June, 1940, is a brother of Daniel E. Grubb who is now in custody of Army officials for failing to report at the end of a 14-day furlough which followed his service induction. Daniel Grubb declares himself to be a Jehovah's Witness, the same sect in which John Grubb professes membership.

Mrs. Grubb charges in her petition that her husband has told her that he "will refuse to protect his country, will not serve in armed forces of the nation, and will permit himself to be imprisoned rather than bear arms."

Mrs. Grubb charges further that her husband has failed to provide a home for her and that "he would not keep any job and does not desire to do anything that requires physical exertion."

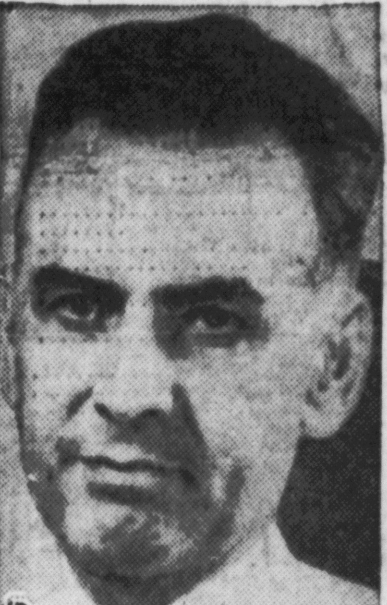

The petition states that Mrs. Grubb left her husband October 7 because of the humiliation caused by her husband's stand. She asks that her maiden name of Overly be restored to her.

APPLE PICKING TILT SOUGHT BY COAST COLLEGE

PULLMAN, Wash., Oct. 14—A new kind of intercollegiate competition to help the war effort, an apple picking contest, became a possibility today with the announcement that Washington State students had challenged the University of Washington to a fruit harvesting battle.

The challenge was issued by Le Roy Bradbury, president of the Washington State student body, at a special assembly where 593 students volunteered to help save the state's apple crop which is threatened by lack of pickers.

Lose Ships but Live

Two skippers whose ships were lost in the opening battle of the Solomons are Capt. F. L. Riefkohl, top, commander of the U. S. S. Vincennes and Capt. William Greenman, commander of the U. S. S. Astoria. The two cruisers were among the three lost when attacked by a Jap flotilla in the Tulagi-Guadalcanal area. Also lost was the Australian cruiser Canberra.

KANSAS LEADS IN PER CAPITA SCRAP EFFORT

NEW YORK, Oct. 14—Kansas led the nation today with the highest per capita contribution to the scrap metal drive in a preliminary report compiled by the National Committee of the News-papers' United Scrap Metal drive.

Kansas reported 72.2 pounds of metal had been gathered for every man, woman and child in the state. Nevada was a close second reporting 70.3 pounds per capita.

Utah was third with 63.6 pounds while Oregon and Rhode Island were tied for fourth place with per capita collections of 55.7 pounds.

The results of collections made thus far were contained in a report prepared by Richard W. Slocum, chairman of the publishers' committee sponsoring the huge salvage program.

The five remaining states of the 10 leaders were separated in the tabulation by less than five pounds per capita. Leading this group was Pennsylvania, with 49.4 pounds per person. Next came New York with 48.9 pounds followed by Ohio, 46.9 pounds; Colorado, 46.4 pounds and Delaware, 45.2 pounds.

EXTEND WORK WEEK

CINCINNATI, Oct. 14—John L. Lewis' United Mine Workers union today at the final session of its thirty-seventh constitutional convention adopted a resolution agreeing to extend the work week of the miners from five to six days.

Three Communiques

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON, Oct. 14—U. S. submarines operating in far eastern waters today were credited by the Navy with sinking a heavy Jap cruiser and four other vessels, probably sinking one cargo ship and damaging two more.

The eight ships sunk and damaged brought to more than 18 the number of enemy ships announced within 25 hours as sunk or damaged by air, surface and torpedo action by the United States.

The usual brief communique that accompanies reports on submarine action merely stated that one heavy cruiser, one medium sized cargo ship, one small cargo ship, one small tanker, and a trawler were sunk, one medium sized cargo ship damaged and probably sunk and a large and medium tanker damaged.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 14—America's Pacific offensive teams today swung into a faster, more deadly stride, which was reflected by five days of land, sea and air action in the Solomons and Aleutians in which more than 10 Jap ships were blasted, enemy bases hit and new territory captured.

The startling and possibly far-reaching developments were outlined in three Navy communiques in which U. S. Army Navy and Marine Corps land, sea and air forces were credited with the following score in action between October 8 and 12:

In the Solomons: One Jap cruiser, four destroyers and a transport were sunk, one destroyer probably sunk and three cruisers damaged by naval and air action; 15 planes were destroyed; Rekata bay was bombed and strafed; new territory was seized on Guadalcanal in a two-day land offensive.

Action In Aleutians

In the Aleutians: Army Navy bombers escorted by fighter planes rained destruction on enemy ships and shore installations at Kiska in raids October 8-9-10; significantly, no Jap planes took the air to oppose the attacks.

Most of the damage to Japanese ships in the Solomons was done by a task force of the Pacific fleet which struck a mid-night blow against Japanese warships engaged in landing reinforcements on important Guadalcanal island.

In its latest South Pacific communique, the Navy pointed out that a task force of cruisers and destroyers was sent in against the Japanese after persistent air attacks failed to halt the flow of enemy reinforcements.

"At about midnight on the night of October 11-12, this task (Continued on Page Two)

OVERSEAS, BUT ASKS CHANCE TO VOTE LOCALLY

November election to date has attracted little attention from Circleville and Pickaway county voters, but to some of the men in the nation's armed forces it is important. Election board received a letter Wednesday from overseas, Captain Marion (Scotty) Sothorn of Asheville sending a request for a ballot.

The board will mail the ballot to Captain Sothorn although it feels that there isn't time for it to be returned to be cast on election day.

The captain writes that his address is 7th Evacuation Hospital, APO 930, care Postmaster, San Francisco, Cal. He has been in foreign service, but he maintains his interest in the election. The ballot went into the mail immediately.

Clear Sailing Predicted For Youth Draft

effort to build that kind of an army.

"Let me stress that whatever the size of our army may be, the one criterion will be its striking power."

Stimson then discussed the "misleading estimates which have been given out at various sources," and added:

"Therefore, we decided to make a statement as to our aims so the nation will know where we stand."

WASHINGTON, Oct. 14.—Secretary of War Stimson, Gen. George C. Marshall, chief of staff, and Maj. Gen. Lewis Hershey, Selective Service director, go before the Senate and House Military Affairs committee today to support legislation extending the draft law to an estimated 1,500,000 American youths in the 18-19 age bracket.

The appearance of the high military officials was scheduled as House leaders predicted that when the measure is brought to a final vote in the lower branch Saturday, there will not be a single member opposing it.

Not in recent years has a statement from President Roosevelt touched off such speedy action by Congress as did his assertion in his fireside chat Monday night that draft of 18 and 19 year-old males would be "necessary."

Rushing Bill

In a surprise move, taken without consultation with the White House, Speaker Rayburn and Majority Leader McCormack decided to rush a bill through the House this week, and after a conference with Chairman May (D), Ky., of the House Military Affairs committee, announced this would be done.

Although the Senate had planned no comparable program, Majority Leader Barkley and Minority Leader McNary made it clear that they both favored passage before the elections three weeks hence. "Until the House leadership decided to act, few members of Congress expected to have to take a stand on the legislation until after election day."

Two Bills Offered

Two bills held the spotlight as the stage was set for action today. Sponsored by Sen. Gurney (R), S. D., and Rep. May, both measures would extend the draft law to 18 and 19-year-old males, but differed in certain provisions.

Gurney's bill would not permit the induction of a youth during the second semester of a school year without his consent.

May's measure would not permit induction at any time during a school year without the youth's consent, and further, would not allow any 18 or 19-year-old to be put into active combat service without at least a year of training.

The House committee, which has long been cool to drafting youths under 20, is scheduled to report the May bill by tomorrow night. While no serious opposition is expected to be encountered, some members of the committee are taking the position exemplified by Rep. Edmiston (D), W. Va. Edmiston said:

"I am opposed to drafting boys under 20 until we have made thorough use of all men above that age—which we have not done. I want to see the War Department's figures and hear the statements of Mr. Stimson and Gen. Marshall before I'll say that I will vote for it."

A statement by Chairman Reynolds of the Senate Military Affairs committee that it would take his committee four or five weeks to conduct hearings, further complicated the prospects of speedy action. However, most congressional leaders were of the opinion that if the house carries out its plan for quick passage of a bill, the senate most likely would follow suit, possibly within the next 10 days.

BIG CROWD AT SALE

Large crowd of interested persons attended the Miss Anna Florence sale Tuesday at her home on Florence Chapel pike in Jackson township when farm equipment and stock and her valuable collection of antiques were offered. The sale was a highly successful one, according to reports, with good prices prevailing and much interest being shown. The sale was handled by Walter O. Bumgarner and Scott Amos, auctioneers, the former being in charge of farm goods and the latter of the antiques.

CABINET BACKS CHILEAN CHIEF IN U. S. REBUFF

SANTIAGO, Chile, Oct. 14.—President Juan Rios today had the formal approval of the Chilean cabinet for his action in cancelling a proposed visit to the United States at the invitation of President Roosevelt.

The Chilean president called off the trip in protest against the charges of Undersecretary of State Sumner Welles that Chile harbored Axis agents who have sent out news of United Nations ship movements over clandestine radio stations.

The Federation of Chilean Labor Unions has passed a resolution endorsing Rios' attitude in the spy charge controversy but the resolution also called on the president and cabinet to break off relations with the Axis nations.

Charges of "insulting the United States government" have been brought against Robert Bianchi, editor of the magazine Accion Chilena.

MIRACLE MAN OF SHIPS DRAWS CIO CRITICISM

CAMDEN, N. J., Oct. 14.—Henry J. Kaiser, famed "miracle man" of shipbuilding, today stood accused of "racketeering" and "inefficiency" by the CIO Industrial Union of Marine and Shipbuilding workers.

The union claims that Kaiser workers were forced into the AFL without a chance to vote in a collective bargaining election and asked the National Labor Relations Board to issue a complaint. So far no complaint has been issued.

Philip H. Van Gelder, national secretary-treasurer of the IUMSW, protested the delay in a letter to the board charging that the "collusive closed shop agreement at the Kaiser yards extorts excessive permit fees, initiation fees and dues from Kaiser workers, resulting in low morale which impedes efficient production of ships—this notwithstanding the supposed record set by Kaiser."

"As you doubtless know," Gelder's letter went on, "the man hours per ship in the Kaiser yards are considerably higher than in other yards doing similar work."

FARM BOYS AND GIRLS TO BE BANQUET GUESTS

Pickaway county 4-H livestock club boys and girls numbering between 150 and 175 will be honored Thursday evening, October 22, at a banquet to be served in Presbyterian church parlors.

The banquet, which will be the kickoff for the 4-H club and vocational agriculture show, scheduled October 23 and 24, will be sponsored by the Pickaway county Farm Bureau, its affiliates organizations and the Circleville Oil company.

F. K. Blair, Pickaway county agricultural agent, said that the program will be brief, all members of the livestock units to attend the hand concert at the courthouse. Some will take their livestock into the parade scheduled Thursday night. All will go to the courthouse to hear an address to be delivered by a representative of State War Savings committee.

It has been tentatively announced that Frank B. Pauly of Middletown, widely known Rotarian, will be the speaker. However, confirmation of his assignment has not yet been received by Earl A. Smith, county War Bond chairman.

The banquet being arranged for the 4-H youngsters is given in recognition of the work they have done this Summer and Fall in the interests of agriculture.

RUNAWAY TRAILER HITS TREE; STOPS SUDDENLY

Fortunately, no automobile was parked in front of the Bert F. Rose residence, South Court street, Wednesday at 10 a. m., because it would have been destroyed.

A loaded trailer broke loose from a Benedict Lines, Inc., truck just after the heavy vehicle crossed the Norfolk and Western tracks heading South. Anything in the path of the trailer would have been crushed, except possibly the tree in front of the Rose home. The tree was barked and the Rose front yard was somewhat torn up, but no other damage was reported as the tree stopped the trailer.

The trucking outfit was handled by Robert Williams, 30, of 694 Berkeley road, Columbus.

Patrolman George Green, who investigated, said the trailer apparently was jarred loose from the remainder of the outfit when it crossed the railroad. The automobile of Green's brother, William, was parked about 20 feet from the tree which stopped the big trailer.

force engaged a force of enemy cruisers, destroyers and transports to the westward of Savo island," the communique said.

"After a 30 minute battle fought with guns and torpedoes, the enemy was forced to abandon his landing attempt and withdraw."

The action resulted in the sinking of one U. S. destroyer and "minor to moderate damage" to several other American vessels. (Savo island was the scene of the August 8-9 night battle in which three heavy U. S. cruisers were sunk.)

"During the engagement our forces sank one heavy cruiser (Nati or Atago class), four destroyers and an enemy transport of about 5,000 tons," the communique added.

The following morning, Navy and Marine corps torpedo planes and dive bombers thundered away from the Guadalcanal airport in search of the retreating enemy ships.

Cruiser Torpedoed

"At about 10 o'clock two enemy cruisers were overtaken south of New Georgia island," the account continued. "A torpedo hit was obtained on one cruiser and several bombs exploded nearby. The cruiser was left dead in the water and burning."

That afternoon, planes again intercepted a cruiser and destroyer in the New Georgia area.

"A direct bomb hit severely damaged and stopped the cruiser," the Navy said. "When last seen her crew were abandoning ship. It is believed that this cruiser had been damaged during the previous engagements."

"A direct hit and several near misses set fire to the destroyer... she was left in a sinking condition."

Cruisers Damaged

In an earlier communique, the Navy reported damage to two Jap cruisers in an attack north of New Georgia on October 9. One of the warships was reported "down by the bow" when last seen. Three seaplanes were shot down.

At the same time, the Navy reported that 12 Jap bombers and fighter planes were shot down over Guadalcanal, and that Marines supported by Army fighter planes extended their positions on the island after a two-day offensive.

These actions boosted to at least 48 the number of Japanese ships sunk or damaged to date in the Solomons campaign, including eight sunk, three probably sunk and 37 damaged. In contrast, U. S. losses to date were 10 ships sunk and at least five damaged. The Japs also lost 260 planes.

New Push Likely

These developments supported the growing belief in official circles that the Nipponese were stepping up their operations for another attempt to recapture their former airfield on Guadalcanal and that U. S. forces were moving to check such a drive.

There was no confirmation, meanwhile, of reports from China that a powerful Japanese armada that included carriers and battle ships was sighted heading in the general direction of the Solomons.

The communique on the Aleutians left no doubt that U. S. Army planes are in complete control of the skies and are continuing their aerial siege against Kiska, last Nipponese stronghold on American soil in the North Pacific.

POOR WORK IN SCHOOL LEADS TO BOY'S DEATH

CLEVELAND, Oct. 14.—The body of a 14-year-old boy who asked his sister: "Suppose I die—would you laugh or cry?" was reported today hanging from a beam in the basement of his home following discussion with his parents about his poor school work.

Henry Lescault, ninth-grade pupil, according to police, hanged himself by stepping off a chair after having attempted to commit suicide by asphyxiation. The body was discovered by his sister, Pauline, 15, who was lead to the basement by a note left by the boy on the kitchen table which read: "Look in the cellar—over by the sink."

A note signed "Henry" was found pinned to the youth's chest. "This is my own doing," the note read. "I don't blame you, Bill, or you, Pauline, or you, mother." "Bill," detectives said, was the boy's stepfather.

NEW POWDERED MILK RECEIVES MEDICOS' O.K.

NEW YORK, Oct. 14.—It looks like milk. It tastes like milk. It is milk!

Thus, officially, have medical men passed on the dehydrated milk product invented by Dr. Charles E. North, 73-year-old consultant.

Previously dehydration processes were confined to skim-milk because of the difficulty in preserving the fat content of whole milk. The taste of the re-created product, hence, was like anything but milk.

In a test yesterday of the new product, Dr. North mixed 160 pounds of powdered milk with 520 quarts of water and—presto! Produced 600 quarts of wholesome milk. Reporters sampling it said it tasted richer than ordinary milk.

Andeanof Islands, American planes on October 8, 9 and 10 dropped demolition and incendiary bombs on Jap-held Kiska.

Kiska Bombed

"Targets for these bombings were chiefly the camp and hangar area and enemy ships in the harbor," the Navy said. "Fires were observed ashore and damage was reported on the ships in the harbor."

"In these attacks only moderate anti-aircraft opposition was experienced and no hostile planes were observed in the air. Although receiving minor damage, all of our planes returned."

These attacks boosted to more than 40 the number of Jap ships sunk and damaged to date in the Aleutians, including 13 sunk.

The other Axis powers were punished severely on the European fronts. As the Russians seized the initiative in the East, British bombers smashed at the great German naval yard and shipbuilding facilities at Kiel. It was the first attack on the Baltic port since late April.

Nine British bombers failed to return, indicating that a force of 150 to 200 big RAF bombers took part in the attack. Indications that the damage was severe were seen in the German reference to the attack as "a terror raid."

Whenever the Nazis adopt that whining note it usually develops that they have been hit hard.

As the German onslaughts against Stalingrad and the Caucasus withered before the first breath of the Russian Winter, the Soviet armies took the offensive and shoved the enemy back on several sectors.

A strategic defense point south of Stalingrad was recaptured, the flanking attack northwest of the city moved slowly ahead and in the Mordok area of the central Caucasus the Germans fell back after a furious attack failed to dent the Russian lines.

they are being taught stenography at government expense.

He quoted a woman in charge of a War department branch as saying there were girls employed in her division who can type 130 words a minute "but they are doing nothing."

Aims At Civil Army

Rules committee Chairman Sabath (D) Ill., inquired if the proposed investigations would not be covering the same ground as the Military and Naval Affairs committee. Ramspeck assured him that neither of those committees was making a study of civilian personnel as proposed by his resolution.

Sentiment in the rules committee as well as the Civil Service committee which will conduct the investigation obviously favored the proposal as Ramspeck disclosed that during the last fiscal year alone civilian employees of the War department have increased from 328,219 to 912,373—an increase of a little less than 200 percent.

Rep. Michener (R) Mich., rules committee member, declared that the nation should know the truth about the "civilian army," while another member, Rep. Smith (D) Va., asserted that probably every member of Congress had heard criticism of the government employees were not doing worthwhile work in overcrowded Washington offices.

Some members wanted the Ramspeck resolution to include an investigation of reports that persons were seeking War department civilian jobs in an effort to avoid the draft, and Sabath admitted "there are undoubtedly thousands on the payroll who are not needed and should not be kept there."

HOWARD GLITT WINS PRAISE IN NEWS RELEASE

nounced today by the State War Bond Headquarters, Cleveland.

"In addition to Howard, eight other Regional War Bond Champions have been invited to attend the dinner to receive the awards provided by The Standard Oil Company of Ohio to promote the sale of War Bonds in Ohio. Presentations will be made by an executive of the Standard Oil Company."

"Howard, a 15-year-old newsboy was chosen, according to Phil J. Troutman, state chairman of the War Savings staff, because while most other carrier boys for The Circleville Herald have larger sales totals than Howard, none of them has done a more outstanding piece of work than this fighting young American. Despite the handicap of having a route entirely within the factory section of the city, Howard sells from 350 to 500 War Savings Stamps a week. He has convinced his customers that Uncle Sam right now needs the financial support of all citizens and that everyone must fight one way or another."

AUTO PROBLEM TO BE SUBJECT OF FARM MEET

County Committee To Assist
In Filing Claims Of
War Necessity

CONSERVATION PLANNED

Questions And Answers Listed
In Attempt To Clarify
Local Situation

Organization of a Pickaway county Farm Transportation Committee, headed by John G. Boggs, chairman of the Pickaway county U. S. Department of Agriculture War Board, will be completed by the latter part of the week after Mr. Boggs attends a state organizational meeting in Columbus Thursday and Friday.

The committee will assist local farmers and farm truckers in filling out applications for "certificates of war necessity."

This committee will consist of five regular and four alternate members, including Mr. Boggs, who will be chairman; two farmer members who are representative of the principal types of agriculture in the county, a member to represent truck transportation services for agriculture commodities in the county, and a member who is a dealer of farm supplies in the county.

In addition to filling out applications for "certificates of war necessity" the committee will develop conservation transportation plans.

Mr. Boggs, Wednesday, listed the following questions and answers to help clarify the transportation program:

Q. Who will have to have a Certificate of War Necessity?

A. Owners of all types of trucks and other rubber-tired vehicles propelled or drawn by mechanical power and built or rebuilt primarily for the purposes of transporting property except motorcycles, as well as all other motor vehicles used in the transportation of passengers or which are available for public rental, including ambulances and hearses. Not included are private passenger cars.

Q. Does this include farm trucks?

A. It does.

Q. What happens if I don't have a certificate?

EARLY MAILING OF GIFTS FOR SOLDIERS URGED

Another appeal was voiced Wednesday to parents, other relatives and friends of men serving on foreign soil to mail early if they wish Christmas gifts to reach the men prior to the holiday. November 1 has been set as the deadline for acceptance of packages going overseas, but the deadline doesn't mean that all packages should be kept at home until that time. Get them in the mail now, military and postal authorities urge, if you hope for delivery in time for Christmas.

Five rules are being set up for mailing packages to soldiers, sailors and marines. They are that parcels should be mailed before November 1, should be limited to the size of a shoe box and weigh no more than six pounds, each should be addressed with full name, rank, unit number and postoffice, each should be wrapped securely and postage must be fully prepaid at regular postal rates to the port of debarkation.

Not more than one package may be sent each week to the same person, no intoxicants, matches or lighter fluids may be sent, no currency should be mailed, and packages should be wrapped to permit inspection.

Came or dumped in from somewhere, there is a perfectly fine and friendly male dog around at the Cooper bird and animal home and hospital. But he is in need of expert medical treatment and care. This may need the services of a veterinarian to cure what is called animal mange. To date, this Herald column has placed several stray and lost dogs in good farm homes and it is hoped this one may too, find some big hearted, dog-friendly soul to claim and properly care for him. This animal may be seen at the Cooper home only a short distance north of the Cooper gas and service station. AUTO PROBLEM TO BE SUBJECT OF FARM MEET

County Committee To Assist
In Filing Claims Of
War Necessity

CONSERVATION PLANNED

Questions And Answers Listed
In Attempt To Clarify
Local Situation

Organization of a Pickaway county Farm Transportation Committee, headed by John G. Boggs, chairman of the Pickaway county U. S. Department of Agriculture War Board, will be completed by the latter part of the week after Mr. Boggs attends a state organizational meeting in Columbus Thursday and Friday.

The committee will assist local farmers and farm truckers in filling out applications for "certificates of war necessity."

This committee will consist of five regular and four alternate members, including Mr. Boggs, who will be chairman; two farmer members who are representative of the principal types of agriculture in the county, a member to represent truck transportation services for agriculture commodities in the county, and a member who is a dealer of farm supplies in the county.

Questions Answered

In addition to filling out applications for "certificates of war necessity" the committee will develop conservation transportation plans.

Mr. Boggs, Wednesday, listed the following questions and answers to help clarify the transportation program:

Q. Who will have to have a Certificate of War Necessity?

A. Owners of all types of trucks and other rubber-tired vehicles propelled or drawn by mechanical power and built or rebuilt primarily for the purposes of transporting property except motorcycles, as well as all other motor vehicles used in the transportation of passengers or which are available for public rental, including ambulances and hearses. Not included are private passenger cars.

Q. Does this include farm trucks?

A. It does.

Q. What happens if I don't have a certificate?

A. No truck can be legally moved after November 15 without one. No gasoline, tires, or repair parts can be obtained without a certificate.

Q. What are County Farm Transportation Committees?

A. They are committees appointed by County USDA War Boards at the direction of the Secretary of Agriculture, to assist the Office of Defense Transportation and the Office of Price Administration in the operation of their transportation conservation and rationing programs.

Committee Members

Q. Who is on these committees?

A. Five men, as follows: Chairman (County War Board Chairman), two farmer members, one member representing truck transportation, and one member who is a dealer in farm machinery. An alternate for each of last four is also appointed.

Q. Where can you get in touch with your committee?

A. Their headquarters are at the County USDA War Board offices.

Q. Where can a farmer obtain help in filling out his application?

A. Member of the County Farm Transportation Committee or a specially trained volunteer working with the committee will help them.

Q. When should he take his application to the committee?

A. On October 22, 23 or 24. These days have been designated as the National Farm Truck Registration Days.

Q. Where should he take it?

A. To the committee office or to another place which the committee shall designate in advance.

Q. In what further ways will committees serve the counties?

A. They will develop transportation programs within the county, review applications for new trucks, and assist in furthering the conservation program in various ways.

Q. Do truck dealer demonstration vehicles need certificates?

A. Not when operated for purposes of selling such vehicles.

PREPARING FOR PEACE

IT IS NOT too soon to think about the world to come after the war ends. The collapse of the Axis, though not now in sight, may come as suddenly as did the German breakdown in the last war. That found the world unprepared to organize the peace. The great powers floundered and improvised, and are now paying the penalty for their unpreparedness. It must not happen again.

Prudent Americans are already giving some thought to the conduct of the world after the expected victory of the United Nations. One such program is being considered by the League of Nations Association. This body still recognizes that the League was far from perfect, that it was, indeed, "but the beginning of man's efforts to conquer the last frontier by building a community of free nations." Some such body, with full American participation, seems to the Association absolutely necessary if there is not to be a third world war, worse than either of the other two. It endorses the Atlantic Charter and is trying to educate Americans to the importance of this document.

There may be some better course. If so, no time should be lost in mapping it out.

WELL-MIXED PATRIOTS

"WHAT a curious war this is!" So remarked an American general, discovering his youngest brother-in-law scrubbing the stairs at division headquarters. In a New York regiment father and son are in the same company. Dad is a buck private and Sonny is a corporal. There are quite a number of employers finding themselves taking orders from bosses in uniform who, in civil life, swept out their stores or factories.

This mixing up will do the United States a lot of good. The late Scottish playwright, James M. Barrie, wrote a drama about a shipwrecked company who found that the one qualified leader of the group was the family butler. There is plenty of hidden ability and the war is bringing it out.

SOLONS SHOW FORESIGHT

WASHINGTON: Those who contend that only military and naval men should run the war, and that Congress is interfering with the war effort, should study the report of the House Appropriations Committee, which last week voted out a 14 billion dollar naval appropriation bill, with not one dollar provided for battleships. This was a big backstage triumph for certain far-sighted Congressmen, led by Senator Brewster of Maine.

For four years, Brewster has vigorously fought the battleship and demanded that Navy build more airplanes—only to be overruled, until now, by the admirals. When the 1938 naval authorization bill came up it contained the huge total of $100,000,000 for three new battleships plus a provision that the Navy could have no more than 3,000 planes.

Senator Brewster, then in the House of Representatives, vigorously opposed. He contended that the Navy should have more than 3,000 planes, certainly should not be limited. He also argued that battleships were out of date.

But Admiral Leahy, then chief of Naval Operations, disagreed. He insisted that the battleship was not obsolete. He insisted so vigorously that the Naval Affairs Committee sided with him and voted the authorization.

"I'll bet you that not one of these battleships ever will be built," Senator Brewster told Leahy, and wrote a separate minority report regarding both battleships and airplanes.

When the bill got to the floor of Congress, Brewster also staged a battle for more naval airplanes—though the admirals insisted on limiting the number to 3,000. Brewster fought so stubbornly that finally Representative Vinson of Georgia, charge of the Naval Authorization bill, suggested to Brewster:

"Let's compromise this thing. Instead of making the bill read 'not more than 3,000 airplanes,' let's make it read 'not less than 3,000 aircraft.'"

So the bill was passed that way.

USS KENTUCKY

Brewster and Leahy have remained good friends, the Senator having a great admiration for the Admiral, and the Admiral being frank enough to tell friends, "How wrong I was about the battleship."

But the other day when the Truman Committee, of which Brewster is a member, visited a certain Atlantic port, they saw there the battleship Kentucky, seventeen percent completed. This was one of the three new ships voted for in the 1938 bill. She was anchored in the harbor being used as a storehouse. She will never be completed as a battleship.

Meanwhile, if the admirals had been permitted to limit naval aircraft to only 3,000, the Navy would have been in a tough spot at Midway and in the battle of the Coral Sea. For in those battles, battleships did not get within shooting range

Altitude in Aviation Big Military Medical Problem

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

NEWEST and most vigorous of the branches of military medicine is that of aviation. This is to be expected in view of the prominence which that branch of service has acquired.

The fundamental medical problem of aviation medicine is altitude.

Dr. Clendening will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

tude. We assume in saying this that the aviator has gone through the most rigid physical examination of anyone in the service. His heart, eyes, ears, equilibrium apparatus, physiologic responses to environmental changes, all have been subjected to special tests, many of them the result of special research.

When a man has successfully passed these, he may indeed be considered super. But even this supreme physical specimen may have to undergo environmental changes in the course of a single flight which tests its endurance beyond its utmost capacity. These environmental changes are due to altitude, rarification of air and consequent oxygen lack.

Supplying Oxygen

It was, of course, a fairly simple thing to supply oxygen artificially by tanks and masks, although it has taken a long time to perfect a workable small, portable apparatus. The credit goes to Drs. W. M. Boothby and W. R. Lovelace, of the Mayo Clinic, Rochester, Minnesota, and Dr. A. H. Bull-bulian—the B. L. B. oxygen inhalation apparatus.

The important question arises: At what height shall the flier be instructed to begin oxygen inhalation? The old military regulation specified 15,000 feet, or at 12,000 feet if for periods of two hours, or 10,000 feet if for periods of six hours. But this has been found under present war conditions to be entirely too high. It has been found that aviation crews who fail to use their oxygen at 6,000 feet become easy prey to enemy planes, and show gross errors in judgment, mental lapses, lack of alertness and undue fatigue.

Aero-Embolism

Another very serious accident due to altitude flying is called aero-embolism. It is exactly the same essentially as the long-familiar diver's caisson disease, which they called "the bends." This occurred when divers who were subjected to more than one pressure of atmosphere were suddenly taken up to air at sea level. They had severe pains in the muscles and joints, causing them to double up with cramps (hence "the bends"), which was proved to be due to the escape of air bubbles out of the blood into the muscle tissues.

The aviator, of course, goes through exactly what the diver does, only in reverse. He rises from an air pressure of sea level to an altitude of 16,000 or more feet; the pressure of gases in his blood is released, and the gases escape into the muscles. This occurs only when very high altitudes are attained.

In treatment the aviator has a great advantage over the diver, because when he gets the bends he can descend to a lower level, where the pressure will equalize the air content of blood and tissue. But this is only theoretical, because combat conditions may not allow him to descend, and the condition, itself, may bring on fatigue, or even coma, so that he cannot control his plane.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

H. Y.:—Can an inward toxic goiter cause falling and thinning hair and pimples?

Answer: These are not given regular symptoms of the condition, but they do go with myxedema, which is a diminished secretion of the thyroid gland.

SYNOPSIS

Following her mother's death, red-haired, slim MARY DEXTER leaves Omaha to take a job in the Nordex Aircraft plant in California. She shares an apartment with FRANK BOND, night club singer and dancer. Friendship develops between Mary and KEN GRANT, young mechanical engineer, also newly employed at Nordex. Mary has been attracted to BRUCE MARTIN, Nordex test pilot, over whom a dark cloud seems to hover.

YESTERDAY: Mary tells Fran about Ken's proposal.

CHAPTER ELEVEN

THE BUS pulled cautiously through the flooded street to the curb, and Mary, in hooded raincoat, got off and sprinted the dark half block through a heavy, California winter rain, to the apartment. Tonight she didn't mind the rain or the darkness. She could see the light shining from their window and she knew Fran was there waiting up for her. Funny, what a difference it made knowing a person you loved was thinking of you, waiting for you.

Fran was curled in a deep chair before the fireplace, in her blue woolen robe.

"Hi, Ducky!" she sang out as Mary slammed the door and began stamping off the rain in the hall. Fran had a steaming pitcher of hot milk on the table beside her and she poured Mary a glass as the latter came in.

"This is the life," said Fran. "Alice sit by the fire. When I go back to work, I'm going to kick every cat I see. Why should they have all the fun?"

Mary took the milk, laughing. "You do look snug." She looked about the room, with its soft lights and the flickering fire, the tawny golds, and dull greens mellowed into rich beauty. She loved the apartment. Vaguely familiar swing music was coming softly from the radio.

Fran explained it. "First time I've ever heard Burke on the air," she grinned a little proudly.

The music ended and Fran grabbed the phone and dialed. Winking at Mary, she called for Burke, and in the voice of an outraged dowager asked, "Is this the place a lady calls to complain about lousing up the airwaves with that feeble excuse for a band?"

She laughed at Burke's reply, and added laconically, "Yep, it was bad. Worse than the last. What you need is a good blues singer. Maybe I can dig you up one!"

After a few more quips, she hung up. She had called him between each number. He was practically wild. She chuckled.

"Poor Burke. He has his hands full with me." Then she broke off to set down her glass and point at a corner table.

"Flowers for you, Mary!" she cried. "They came about an hour ago."

Mary opened the box and took out a large sheaf of yellow roses. She felt sure that Ken had sent them and she was distressed about it. Why couldn't they both forget last night—pretend it hadn't happened—go on being good pals as before? Did roses from him mean—

"Why don't you read the card and stop guessing?" Fran said.

Mary glanced at her and slid out the card.

"It's more fun to—oh! The bold, black letters on the white parchment danced before her eyes. Her heart leaped and began a muffled race. She turned without a word and handed the card to Fran, who read aloud, "Feel like a drive to-night? Bruce."

Silently the eyes of the two girls met. Mary's were wide green pools of misty wonder and joy even as her brow furrowed in troubled thought.

"I—I don't suppose I should go after what Ken told me . . ." she quavered.

Fran said nothing. Mary picked up the card and stirred the fire. Suddenly she burst out. "But how does Ken know? The F. B. I. doesn't publish a list of its suspects. Maybe it's just malicious gossip. Maybe it's ALI—just talk. . . ." She turned to Fran and whispered, "What shall I do?"

"What do you want to do?" Fran asked simply. "I want to see him—I always want to see him," Mary whispered miserably.

Fran smiled and then patted the trembling hand that Mary had laid on her knee. "Then I'd see him," she said cheerfully. "I think you've got too much good sense to fall this hard for a total stranger. I'm inclined to believe there may be two sides to this sabotage story—it may be as full of air as his Hollywood notoriety."

Fran rummaged through the pile of magazines beside her and pulled out a movie journal. In it was a glamorous article, liberally sprinkled with pictures of the beautiful, top ranking screen star, Toinette Vaughn. It told of her engagement last year to Bruce Martin, flyer, that was broken just before she began the greatest picture of her career, "World's End." And it hazarded the opinion that Bruce Martin was still top man in Toinette Vaughn's heart, should marriage bells lure her again.

"I think she's a lame brain and a screwball," Fran said. "But she's got what it takes and she knows how to take 'em. I think any man could get pretty muddled if he got caught in that whirlpool. Anyway, I'd give him a chance to explain. Of course," she added with a grin, "don't take my advice. I was never one to get into the house when someone yelled 'Fire!'"

The doorbell rang while Mary was combing her hair. She slipped into a mustard yellow wool frock and ran a lipstick over her lips with trembling fingers as she heard Bruce chatting with Fran. He grinned at her casually as she came over her arm.

"You want to go swimming, don't you?" he asked. Mary laughed and gasped. "I—I hadn't thought of it." "But of course we're going swimming." He was already on his way to the door, had picked up her coat from a chair and was holding it imperiously for her. "Fran doesn't understand the better things of life, that's all."

"I can understand swimming all right," retorted Fran with her lazy grin. "What I can't see is why you have to go to the ocean to do it."

"I told you to stay back in the breakers," he said.

She smiled at him and murmured, "This is my world."

Then she felt his fingers close on her arm in a pressure of understanding that was sweeter than anything she had ever known. After a moment she heard his voice say, "I know. That's why I come out here. It's next best—"

"Next best to what?" said Mary.

"Next best to being 10,000 feet in the air," he answered slowly. (To Be Continued)

WORLD AT A GLANCE

—By—
Charles F. Stewart

WASHINGTON.—President Roosevelt's pledge of suitable punishment, under the United Nations' auspices, of outstanding Axis war criminals, has set world problems students a-guessing in every direction.

Adolf Hitler

There's no dissent from the verdict all creation cries out for vengeance upon 'em, but there are plenty of critics who say their crimes have been so colossal and atrocious that it's difficult to think of any punishment for 'em that can be considered suitable. It's agreed that, with the conflict over, and the Axis folks leaders in custody, they'll be easy enough to convict. But then what? Simply hanging or shooting 'em would be a mere joke in comparison with what they're perpetrating. Torturing 'em to death wouldn't have much appeal to the average civilized individual of today. It wouldn't be adequate, either. And no mundane court, sentencing 'em to hell, could feel sure that they mightn't be paroled before eternity expires.

Just whom the Axis leaders are a subject of some little discussion.

Of course, Herr Hitler heads the list. A few of his subordinates also are referred to as responsible for mass-murdering. It may be so, but it's a small group, but much emphasis is laid upon the proposition that the United Nations don't advocate wholesale reprisals against the Axis peoples' rank-and-file. Their leaderships are the miscreants the United Nations' investigating commission is probing in advance, in anticipation of post-war trials and penalization.

Hitler in Bad Spot

When that post-war tribunal gets busy, I'd gamble that it'll concentrate on Adolf, and I surmise that he'll be justified in pleading that it'll be so prejudiced in his disfavor as to have difficulty in guaranteeing him a fair and impartial hearing.

He'll have to make the best of it, though. Perhaps some of his underlings will be able to convince the bench that they did only what the Fuehrer ordered 'em to do; that they're entitled to a bit of mercy on that ground.

Naturally Signor Mussolini will be a star, among those accused. The truth is that Benito hasn't amounted to much, though his intentions unquestionably were bad. Nevertheless, he may get off easily, because his fellow-Italians haven't been identified at all formidably with the Axis campaign.

Jap Emperor Hirohito likewise is mentioned as one of the noticeable skalawags who'll stand in the post-war dock. Now Hirohito, as an individual, will be in a position to plead innocent with a clear conscience. His imperial title doesn't mean a darned thing. The Japs' military class is as ugly as Cain, but it's a whole CLASS, with no identifiable head.

The whole thing simmers down to this:

Adolf Hitler is the guy who'll be on post-war trial.

He may have a handful of accessories, but the scaffolds or a firing squad will be sufficient for each of THEM. He needs hedges permanently.

Toward the end of the last war there was a modicum of such talk as is current now. The dope was that the Kaiser must be bumped off the minute his carcass was available. It didn't follow, and it's obvious why not.

Kaiser Less Deliberate

Civilization didn't violently blame Wilhelm. It realized that he'd drifted into his job by accident—heredity.

It deemed him a butcher but not a deliberate one.

So, when he ducked out, it let him go.

Adolf, on the opposite hand, is premeditated. He invented this situation himself. Well, can Adolf, like the Kaiser, escape? Nobody thought the Kaiser could. Why not Adolf, now? Ah, but the Kaiser was a German and a world habit. Nor did he have so many enemies as the Fuehrer.

What I'd guess is that the Germans, finally deciding, against Adolf and the rest of the Axis, will dispose of the Fuehrer, either exiling him or bumping him off. The latter would strike me as the likelier solution.

PREPARING FOR PEACE

IT IS NOT too soon to think about the world to come after the war ends. The collapse of the Axis, though not now in sight, may come as suddenly as did the German breakdown in the last war. That found the world unprepared to organize the peace. The great powers floundered and improvised, and are now paying the penalty for their unpreparedness. It must not happen again.

Prudent Americans are already giving some thought to the conduct of the world after the expected victory of the United Nations. One such program is being considered by the League of Nations Association. This body still recognizes that the League was far from perfect, that it was, indeed, "but the beginning of man's efforts to conquer the last frontier by building a community of free nations." Some such body, with full American participation, seems to the Association absolutely necessary if there is not to be a third world war, worse than either of the other two. It endorses the Atlantic Charter and is trying to educate Americans to the importance of this document.

There may be some better course. If so, no time should be lost in mapping it out.

Following her mother's death, re-saluted, slim
MARY DEXTER leaves Omaha to take a job in the Nordex Aircraft plant in California. She shares an apartment with FRAN BOND, night club singer and dancer. Friendship develops between Mary and KEN GRANT, young mechanical engineer, also newly employed at Nordex. Mary has been attracted to BRUCE MARTIN, Nordex test pilot, over whom a dark cloud seems to hover.

YESTERDAY: Mary tells Fran about Ken's proposal.

CHAPTER ELEVEN

THE BUS pulled cautiously through the flooded street to the curb, and Mary, in hooded raincoat, got off and sprinted the dark half block through a heavy, California winter rain, to the apartment. Tonight she didn't mind the rain or the darkness. She could see the light shining from their window and she knew Fran was there waiting up for her. Funny, what a difference it made knowing a person you loved was thinking of you, waiting for you.

Fran was curled in a deep chair before the fireplace, in her blue woolen robe.

"Hi, Ducky!" she sang out as Mary slammed the door and began stamping off the rain in the hall. Fran had a steaming pitcher of hot milk on the table beside her and she poured Mary a glass as the latter came in.

"This is the life," said Fran. "Alice sit by the fire! When I go back to work, I'm going to kick every cat I see. Why should they have all the fun?"

Mary took the milk, laughing. "You do look snug." She looked about the room, with its soft lights and the flickering fire, the tawny golds, and dull greens mellowed into rich beauty. She loved the apartment. Vaguely familiar swing music was coming softly from the radio.

Fran explained it. "First time I've ever heard Burke on the air," she grinned a little proudly.

The music ended and Fran grabbed the phone and dialed. Winking at Mary, she called for Burke, and in the voice of an outraged dowager asked, "Is this the place a lady calls to complain about lousing up the airwaves with that feeble excuse for a band?"

She laughed at Burke's reply, and added laconically, "Yep, it was bad. Worse than the last. What you need is a good blues singer. Maybe I can dig you up one!"

After a few more quips, she hung up. She had called him between each number. He was practically wild with her.

"Poor Burke. He has his hands full with me." Then she broke off to set down her glass and pointed at a corner table.

"Flowers for you, Mary!" she cried. "They came about an hour ago."

Mary opened the box and took out a large sheaf of yellow roses. She felt sure that Ken had sent them and she was distressed about it. Why couldn't they both forget last night—pretend it hadn't happened—go on being good pals as before? Did roses from him mean—

"Why don't you read the card and stop guessing?" Fran said.

Mary grimaced at her and said out the card.

"It's more fun to—oh!" The bold, black letters on the white parchment danced before her eyes. Her heart leaped and began a muffled race. She turned without a word and handed the card to Fran, who read aloud, "Feel like a drive to-night? Bruce."

Silently the eyes of the two girls met. Mary's were wide green pools of misty wonder and joy even as her brow furrowed in troubled thought.

"I don't suppose I should go—after what Ken told me . . ." she quavered.

Fran said nothing.

Mary picked up the poker and stirred the fire. Suddenly she burst

And they sprinted down through the driving rain to the white-capped waves.

tonight when you can just stand out on our porch?"

The evening was fabulous. A swift drive through swirling torrents of rain to the beach club sprawled low and white along the sand. White-coated attendants welcoming them into the rafters, many-windowed lounge, exchanging laughing greetings with Bruce as they got them suits and towels and led them to their lockers. No one seemed astonished. Bruce Martin often came down for midnight dips, even on nights like this.

They dropped their robes on the veranda.

"Run!" cried Bruce. And they sprinted down through the driving rain to the white-capped waves.

Mary dove into the first wave. It seemed warm after the cold, biting air. Ahead of her, she could see Bruce clearing a strong, fast way out to sea. He turned and waved. She waved back and swam after him. Another white-crested wave. She dove, bobbed up, and swam again. Rain splattered in her face as she raised it for air. She glanced back toward the shore. It was etched in black and white and misted with falling rain. The long, low bathhouse seemed far away. Lights twinkled faintly along the famed, crescent shore line and along the moon-shaped bridge.

She swam on after Bruce, through a sea as smooth as black oil. It was a mad thing—swimming at night and in the rain—mad and exhilarating. Slowly, as the shoreline dimmed in the midst, exultation swept through her. This was a new world, a strange, undisturbed, mysterious, black world, with the surge of moving tides the only movement, the murmur of the sea and wind the only sounds.

She turned on her back. The rain had lessened to a fine drizzle. She closed her eyes and reveled in the strange and solitary moment, the feeling of being cut off from every familiar link with the world. And then Bruce Martin's hand closed over her arm.

"I told you to stay back in the breakers," he said.

She smiled at him and murmured, "This is my world."

Then she felt his fingers close on her arm in a pressure of understanding that was sweeter than anything she had ever known. After a moment she heard his voice say, "I know. That's why I come out here. It's next best."

"Next best to what?" said Mary.

"Next best to being 10,000 feet in the air," he answered slowly. (To Be Continued)

WORLD AT A GLANCE

—By—
Charles P. Stewart

WASHINGTON.—President Roosevelt's pledge of suitable punishment, under the United Nations' auspices, of outstanding Axis criminals, has set world problems students a-guessing in every direction.

There's no dissent from the verdict all creation cries out for vengeance upon 'em, but there are plenty of critics who say their crimes have been so colossal and atrocious that it's difficult to think of any punishment for 'em that can be considered suitable. It's agreed that, with the conflict over, and the Axis folks' leaders in custody, they'll be easy enough to convict. But then what? Simply hanging or shooting 'em would be a mere joke in comparison with what they're perpetrating. Torturing 'em to death wouldn't have much appeal to the average civilized individual of today. It wouldn't be adequate, either. And no mundane court, sentencing 'em to hell, could feel sure that they mightn't be paroled before eternity expires.

Just whom the Axis leaders are as a subject of some little discussion. Of course, Herr Hitler heads the list. A few of his subordinates also are referred to as responsible for mass-murdering. It may be true, as to a small group, but much emphasis is laid upon the proposition that the United Nations don't advocate wholesale reprisals against the Axis peoples' rank-and-file. Their leaderships are the miscreants the United Nations' investigating commission is probing in advance, in anticipation of post-war trials and penalization.

Hitler in Bad Spot
When that post-war tribunal gets busy, I'd gamble that it'll concentrate on Adolf, and I surmise that he'll be justified in pleading that it'll be so prejudiced in his disfavor as to have difficulty in guaranteeing him a fair and impartial hearing.

He'll have to make the best of it, though.

Perhaps some of his underlings will be able to convince the bench that they did only what the Fuehrer ordered 'em to do; that they're entitled to a bit of mercy on that ground.

Naturally Signor Mussolini will be a star, among those accused. The truth is that Benito hasn't amounted to much, though his intentions unquestionably were bad. Nevertheless, he may get off easily, because his fellow-Italians haven't been identified at all formidably with the Axis campaign.

Jap Emperor Hirohito likewise is mentioned as one of the noticeable skulaguys who'll stand in the post-war dock. Now Hirohito, as an individual, will be in a position to plead innocent with a clear conscience. His imperial title doesn't mean a damned thing. The Japs' military class is as ugly as Cain.

but it's a whole CLASS, with no identifiable head.

The whole thing simmers down to this:

Adolf Hitler is the guy who'll be on post-war trial.

He may have a handful of accessories, but the scaffold or a firing squad will be sufficient for each of THEM. He needs no help.

Toward the end of the last war there was a modicum of such talk as is current now. The dope was that the Kaiser must be bumped off the minute his carcass was available. It didn't follow, and it's obvious why not.

Kaiser Less Deliberate
Civilization didn't violently blame Wilhelm. It realized that he'd drifted into his job by accident—heredity.

It deemed him a butcher but not a deliberate one.

So, when he ducked out, it let him go.

Adolf, on the opposite hand, is premeditated. He invented this situation himself.

Well, can Adolf, like the Kaiser, escape?

Nobody thought the Kaiser could. Why not Adolf, now?

Ah, but the Kaiser was a German and a world habit.

Nor did he have so many enemies as the Fuehrer.

What I'd guess is that the Germans, finally deciding, against Adolf and the rest of the Axis, will dispose of the Fuehrer, either by hanging him or bumping him off. The latter would strike me as the likelier solution.

Slavery is a state so improper, so degrading, so ruinous to the feelings and capacities of human nature, that it ought not to be suffered to exist.—Burke.

Today's Horoscope

A busy, pleasant and successful year lies ahead of those persons celebrating birthdays today. Business and finances improve. It is a good time to seek favors, travel and make changes. They may also court and marry, but should watch expenditures. They are persons of rash impulses, quick judgments and hasty, ill-considered actions. They are stubborn and often opinionated. They have ability and are ambitious. They should be more considerate of others. Eastern Star Votes $25 To Community War Chest

Mrs. Johnson Gives Fine Address

SOCIAL CALENDAR

Circleville chapter No. 90, Order of the Eastern Star, voted $25 to the Pickaway County Community War Chest Tuesday at its regular session in Masonic temple. Mrs. Lawrence Johnson, deputy grand matron of the 23rd District, O.E.S., was heard in an excellent talk, this being her last meeting with the chapter before her year is completed at the coming Grand Chapter meeting in Cleveland.

Mrs. Tom Acord, worthy matron, conducted the meeting and announced October 27, 28, 29 and 30 as dates for the Grand Chapter session. Mrs. Acord, Mrs. Johnson and Miss Marie L. Hamilton are planning to attend the state conference.

A memorial service in honor of five members of the chapter that have died during the last year was conducted by Mrs. C. D. Bennett.

Mrs. George Bentley announced the meeting of the Past Matrons' and Patrons' circle for Thursday at 7:30 p. m. in the Red room.

Mrs. Sam Morris, president of the Merry-Makers' Circle, announced its meeting for Friday at 2 p. m. in the Red Cross room, West Main street.

Thirty-five members were present for the fine session.

Scot Valley Grange
Forty members of Scot Valley grange gathered Tuesday in the grange hall where the regular session was conducted by Harry Speakman. The charter was draped in memory of Allyn Rathmell of Lockbourne.

Donations were made to the student loan fund of the grange. Scot Valley grange scrap drive was discussed.

It was decided to write a group letter each meeting to one of the grangers in service, the first being written during the evening.

A Halloween party was planned for the next meeting, October 26. A fine will be imposed on all grangers coming unmasked.

Paul Peters and members of Group 3 provided the literary program.

Group singing was enjoyed and readings and talks presented by Chester Crist, Miss Martha Warner, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Moore, Louis Eakin, Miss Gladys Vause and Paul Peters. Mr. and Mrs. Moore also conducted a contest.

Refreshments were served during the social hour.

Miscellaneous Shower
Several friends of Mrs. James Callahan Jr., the former Ann Hott, complimented her with a miscellaneous shower Monday at the home of Miss Ireta Beaty, 315 Watt street. Other hostesses were Miss Anna Sue Reichelderfer, Miss Joan Bowers, Miss Bette Waters and Miss Patty Owens.

A light luncheon was served at the close of a social hour during which the honor guest opened her many lovely gift packages.

The following guests were present Mrs. L. S. Mader, Miss Margaret Mattison, Mrs. Robert Barnes, Mrs. James Callahan Sr., Mrs. N. F. Reichelderfer, Mrs. Cora Dagon, Mrs. Charles Fullen, Mrs. J. R. Hott, Miss Bernadine Lutz, Mrs. Homer Fullen, Mrs. Garold Crites, Mrs. Curtis Wertman, the Misses Mary Virginia Crites, Gloria Dean, Peggy Goeller, Barbara Caskey, Janet Funk, Julia Jane Work, Florence Dresbach, Mary Ellen Fissell, Mona Lee Hanley, Carolyn Herrmann, Barbara Helwagen, Eleanor Beck, Maxine Friedman and Lillian Stein.

Luther League
Luther League of Christ Lutheran church met Tuesday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Thompson, Jackson township, with 26 members and guests present for the evening. The devotionals were in charge of Mrs. Noah List, president. A vocal solo, "My God and I," sung by Mrs. Thompson, preceded the reading of the topic of the same title by Miss Helen Margaret Kern.

The program in charge of Miss Doris Hulse included piano solos by Mrs. Thompson and Miss Kern and readings by Mrs. Lawrence Krimmel and Mrs. Van Meter Hulse.

Lunch was served at the close of entertaining games.

Mr. and Mrs. Noah List will entertain the group at the November session.

Benevolent Association
The October session of the Circleville Benevolent association was held Tuesday in the city cottage where Miss Clara Southward read an interesting report as case worker of the society. The association's resources being somewhat limited, she told of the adjustment of the supplies to the needs.

Twenty-one persons sent to the cottage used clothing and household supplies.

The society was able to assist

The 268 miscellaneous articles included two bedsteads, one set of springs, two mattresses, one feather bed, couch, cot, three comforts, a quilt, a blanket, four bed spreads, window blinds, curtains, a high chair, rocker, fruit jars, jelly glasses, coat hangers, an umbrella and many other needed things.

Milk was supplied to one family and groceries to two.

Many calls were received for bedding that the society could not supply. More mattresses are needed, also chairs and dishes. One woman has been wanting a skillet, but Uncle Sam needs that, perhaps, more than she does, so she must wait.

Visits in the homes of applicants numbered 76, with 20 visits listed in their behalf. Office interviews totaled 113 with applicants and 51 with consultatives.

Miss Southward mentioned that there was a special need for baby bed.

Loyal Daughters' Class
A playlet by Mrs. Elliot Mason, Mrs. Chester Starkey, Mrs. Paul Woodworth, Mrs. Russell Jones and Mrs. E. L. Pritchard entertained the Loyal Daughters' class Tuesday at its meeting in the United Brethren community house.

Devotions in charge of Mrs. Jones included group singing, readings by Mrs. John Kerns and Mrs. Walter Mavis, Bible study of Genesis 19 and prayer by the Rev. Edward Huston.

A brief business session was conducted by Miss Gladys Noggle. Miss Jo Ann Wallace and Miss Jeannie Mason assisted in presenting the playlet.

Lunch was served to 28 members and guests.

Miss Maggie Mavis, Mrs. Besse Simson and Mrs. Pearl Harrison were members of the hospitality committee.

Mr. and Mrs. Kirwin Hosts
Mr. and Mrs. Paul R. Kirwin of Watt street were hosts Tuesday at a dinner at their home in honor of Lieutenant Tom Kirwin of Moody Field, Valdosta, Ga., who is home on a short furlough.

THREE VISIT BING
Cass Daley, the comedienne of a thousand faces—most of them nightmarish, who rolls 'em in the aisle regularly with her raucous-voiced singing of zany ditties, again will be a guest of Bing Crosby in the Music Hall Thursday at 9 p. m. over NBC.

Completing the guest roster will be the veteran film and stage comedian, Charlie Ruggles and Capt. E. J. Burps, a chaplain of the U. S. Army.

Mary Martin, Ken Carpenter, the Charlesters, Victor Borge and John Scott Trotter will help Bing spread the welcome mat for the guests.

Bing's songs for the occasion will be "Kalamazoo", "My Devotion", "My Buddy", "Walking the Floor Over You" and "At Last". As a duet, he and Mary Martin will sing "People Like You and Me". Mary's solos will be "I'm Getting Tired So I Can Sleep" and "Take Back Your Gold."

DRAMA BOOKED
Elizabeth Bergner and Vincent Price are the "Treasury Star Parade's" co-stars in a broadcast to be heard during the week of October 19, when they present Edward Roberts' dramatic "Norwegian Bridal Procession," based on an incident which occurred at the time of the Nazi invasion of Norway.

ANNA NEAGLE
British stage and screen star, Anna Neagle, whose new picture, "Wings and the Woman" is being released this week, will be the feminine guest star in the dramatic spot on CBS' Stage Door Canteen program Thursday at 9:30 p. m. Orson Welles will make a reappearance by popular request and the vocals will be furnished by Ethel Merman. Comedian Al Bernie will be heard. Raymond Paige's orchestra with Bert Lytell as emcee completes the program.

"HERE COMES NAVY"
There's a story typically American, behind the new song, "Here Comes the Navy," with lyrics set to the tune of "Beer Barrel Polka," which was introduced on the air over CBS' Stage Door Canteen program this week by the Andrews Sisters. This is it.

Lt. Commander Clarence P. Oakes, of the U. S. N. R., authored the lyrics. The Navy liked the

STARS SAY—

For Wednesday, October 14
A PROSPEROUS and happy day is forecast from the prevailing astral influences. It should be a fortunate time for social, domestic and affectional affairs, if steps in this direction are moderately and conservatively taken. Business and new enterprises should thrive under an aggressive speeding up. All pertaining to art, literature and all cultural attainments should thrive.

Is your child a NOSE PICKER?

It may be more than just a nasty habit! It may be a sign of worms. Yes, ugly crawling roundworms inside your child! Other warning signs are: "flicky" appetite, crankiness, hobbling in certain parts. These bowel worms can cause real trouble! If you even suspect your child has them, get JAYNE'S VERMIFUGE right away! JAYNE'S is America's leading proprietary worm medicine; scientifically tested and used by millions for over a century. It expels stubborn worms, yet acts very gently. If no worms are there, JAYNE'S works merely as a mild laxative. Be sure you get JAYNE'S VERMIFUGE!

Eastern Star Votes $25 To Community War Chest

Mrs. Johnson Gives Fine Address

Circleville chapter No. 90, Order of the Eastern Star, voted $25 to the Pickaway County Community War Chest Tuesday at its regular session in Masonic temple. Mrs. Lawrence Johnson, deputy grand matron of the 23rd District, O.E.S., was heard in an excellent talk, this being her last meeting with the chapter before her year is completed at the coming Grand Chapter meeting in Cleveland.

Mrs. Tom Acord, worthy matron, conducted the meeting and announced October 27, 28, 29 and 30 as dates for the Grand Chapter session. Mrs. Acord, Mrs. Johnson and Miss Marie L. Hamilton are planning to attend the state conference.

A memorial service in honor of five members of the chapter that have died during the last year was conducted by Mrs. C. D. Bennett.

Mrs. George Bentley announced the meeting of the Past Matrons' and Patrons' circle for Thursday at 7:30 p. m. in the Red room.

Mrs. Sam Morris, president of the Merry-Makers' Circle, announced its meeting for Friday at 2 p. m. in the Red Cross room, West Main street.

Thirty-five members were present for the fine session.

Scioto Valley Grange
Forty members of Scioto Valley grange gathered Tuesday in the grange hall where the regular session was conducted by Harry Speakman. The charter was draped in memory of Allyn Rathmell of Lockbourne.

Donations were made to the student loan fund of the grange. Scioto Valley grange scrap drive was discussed.

It was decided to write a group letter each meeting to one of the grangers in service, the first being written during the evening.

A Halloween party was planned for the next meeting, October 26. A fine will be imposed on all grangers coming unmasked.

Paul Peters and members of Group 3 provided the literary program.

Group singing was enjoyed and readings and talks presented by Chester Crist, Miss Martha Warner, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Moore, Louis Eakin, Miss Gladys Vause and Paul Peters. Mr. and Mrs. Moore also conducted a contest.

Refreshments were served during the social hour.

Miscellaneous Shower
Several friends of Mrs. James Callahan Jr., the former Ann Hott, complimented her with a miscellaneous shower Monday at the home of Miss Irene Beaty, 315 W. Main street. Other hostesses were Miss Anna Sue Reichelderfer, Miss Joan Bowers, Miss Bette Waters and Miss Patty Owens.

A light luncheon was served at the close of a social hour during which the honor guest opened her many lovely gift packages.

The following guests were present: Mrs. L. S. Mader, Miss Margaret Mattison, Mrs. Robert Barnes, Mrs. James Callahan Sr., Mrs. N. F. Reichelderfer, Mrs. Cora Dagon, Mrs. Charles Fullen, Mrs. J. R. Hott, Miss Bernadine Lutz, Mrs. Homer Fullen, Mrs. Garold Crites, Mrs. Curtis Wertman, the Misses Mary Virginia Crites, Gloria Dean, Peggy Goeller, Barbara Caskey, Janet Funk, Julia Jane Work, Florence Dreesbach, Mary Ellen Fissell, Mona Lee Hanley, Carolyn Herrmann, Barbara Helwagen, Eleanor Beck, Maxine Friedman and Lillian Stein.

Luther League
Luther League of Christ Lutheran church met Tuesday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Thompson, Jackson township, with 26 members and guests present for the evening. The devotionals were in charge of Mrs. Noah List, president. A vocal solo, "My God and I," sung by Mrs. Thompson, preceded the reading of the topic of the same title by Miss Helen Margaret Kern.

The program in charge of Miss Doris Hulise included piano solos by Mrs. Thompson and Miss Kern and readings by Mrs. Lawrence Krimmel and Mrs. Van Meter Hulise.

Lunch was served at the close of entertaining games.

Mr. and Mrs. Noah List will entertain the group at the November session.

Benevolent Association
The October session of the Circleville Benevolent association was held Tuesday in the city cottage where Miss Clara Southward read an interesting report as case worker of the society. The association's resources being somewhat limited, she told of the adjustment of the supplies to the needs.

Twenty-one persons sent to the cottage used clothing and household supplies.

The society was able to assist

67 families during the month, the supplies issued including 14 pairs of shoes, 11 coats, 15 hats, 29 dresses and 169 other garments.

The 265 miscellaneous articles included two bedsteads, one set of springs, two mattresses, one feather bed, couch, cot, three comforters, a quilt, a blanket, four bed spreads, window blinds, curtains, a high chair, rocker, fruit jars, jelly glasses, coat hangers, an umbrella and many other needed things.

Milk was supplied to one family and groceries to two.

Many calls were received for bedding that the society could not supply. More mattresses are needed, also chairs and dishes. One woman has been wanting a skillet, but Uncle Sam needs that, perhaps, more than she does, so she must wait.

Visits in the homes of applicants numbered 76, with 20 visits listed in their behalf. Office interviews totaled 113 with applicants and 51 with consultatives.

Miss Southward mentioned that there was a special need for a baby bed.

Loyal Daughters' Class
A playlet by Mrs. Elliot Mason, Mrs. Chester Starkey, Mrs. Paul Woodworth, Mrs. Russell Jones and Mrs. E. L. Pritchard entertained the Loyal Daughters' class Tuesday at its meeting in the United Brethren community house.

Devotions in charge of Mrs. Jones included group singing, readings by Mrs. John Kerns and Mrs. Walter Mavis, Bible study of Genesis 19 and prayer by the Rev. Edward Huston.

A brief business session was conducted by Miss Gladys Noggle. Miss Jo Ann Wallace and Miss Jeannie Mason assisted in presenting the playlet.

Lunch was served to 28 members and guests.

Miss Maggie Mavis, Mrs. Besse Simson and Mrs. Pearl Harrison were members of the hospitality committee.

Mr. and Mrs. Kirwin Hosts
Mr. and Mrs. Paul R. Kirwin of Watt street were hosts Tuesday at a dinner at their home in honor of Lieutenant Tom Kirwin of Moody Field, Valdosta, Ga., who is home on a short furlough.

Covers were placed for Lt. Kirwin, Mr. and Mrs. Robert

THREE VISIT BING
Cass Daley, the comedienne of a thousand faces—most of them nightmarish, who rolls 'em in the aisle regularly with her raucous-voiced singing of many ditties, again will be a guest of Bing Crosby in the Music Hall Thursday at 9 p. m. over NBC.

Completing the guest roster will be the veteran film and stage comedian, Charlie Ruggles, and Capt. E. J. Burps, a chaplain of the U. S. Army.

Mary Martin, Ken Carpenter, the Charleottes, Victor Borge and John Scott Trotter will help Bing spread the welcome mat for the guests.

Bing's songs for the occasion will be "Kalamazoo", "My Devotion", "My Buddy", "Walking the Floor Over You" and "At Last". As a duet, he and Mary Martin will sing "People Like You and Me". Mary's solos will be "I'm Getting Tired So I Can Sleep" and "Take Back Your Gold."

DRAMA BOOKED
Elizabeth Bergner and Vincent Price are the "Treasury Star Parade's" co-stars in a broadcast to be heard during the week of October 19, when they present Edward Roberts' dramatic "Norwegian Bridal Procession," based on an incident which occurred at the time of the Nazi invasion of Norway.

ANNA NEAGLE
British stage and screen star, Anna Neagle, whose new picture, "Wings and the Woman" is being released this week, will be the feminine guest star in the dramatic spot on CBS' Stage Door Canteen program Thursday at 9:30 p. m. Orson Welles will make a reappearance by popular request and the vocals will be furnished by Ethel Merman. Comedian Al Bernie will be heard. Raymond Paige's orchestra with Bert Lytell as emcee completes the program.

"HERE COMES NAVY"
There's a story typically American, behind the new song, "Here Comes the Navy," with lyrics set to the tune of "Beer Barrel Polka," which was introduced on the air over CBS' Stage Door Canteen program this week by the Andrews Sisters. This is it.

Lt. Commander Clarence P. Oakes, of the U. S. N. R., authored the lyrics. The Navy liked the song so well, the Andrews Sisters recorded it and every Naval recruiting office in the country got five copies.

This Andrews Sisters recording is now being played in the Naval recruiting offices, so that amplifiers broadcast it outside the stations where men may volunteer.

CANTOR BUSY
Eddie Cantor is busy reading a special routine for his aftershow entertainments which follow his "Time to Smile" broadcasts at Army, Navy and Marine bases. Eddie will emcee the shows, with Dinah Shore and Hattie McDaniel featured in an array of all star entertainers.

STARS SAY—

For Wednesday, October 14
A PROSPEROUS and happy day is forecast from the prevailing astral influences. It should be a fortunate time for social, domestic and affectional affairs, if steps in this direction are moderately and conservatively taken. Business and new enterprises should thrive under an aggressive speeding up. All pertaining to art, literature and all cultural attainments should thrive.

Brown Likes To Go Into Game As Underdog; Purdue Busy

COLUMBUS, Oct. 14 — Coach Paul Brown, who likes to direct an underdog team, let the world know today that he was worried over the high ranking accorded his Ohio State squad over Purdue next Saturday. Another worry for Brown was to find a replacement for Dante Lavelli who will be out for several weeks because of a knee injury. Bill Sedor worked out in Lavelli's post yesterday.

LAFAYETTE, Ind. — Striving to match the scoring power of the undefeated Ohio State team, the Purdue Boilermakers were certain today to rely heavily on a passing attack for Saturday's game with the Buckeyes. During an extended scrimmage, Coach Elmer Burnham emphasized a deceptive overhead attack with John Andretich doing most of the passing.

EVANSTON, Ill. — Northwest-ern today pinned its hopes for stopping Michigan's high geared attack on the Purple line which has an excellent defensive record to date, yielding only one touchdown by rushing to the powerful Iowa Seahawks. Coach Lynn Waldorf sent the Wildcats through a hard defensive drill yesterday against Wolverine plays.

ANN ARBOR, Mich. — Michigan's Wolverines prepared for their 17th meeting with Northwestern today with an ace in the hole, Tom Kuzma, star left half who was pronounced ready for action Saturday. The leading Wolverine ground gainers this season, Don Robinson and Bob Chappius, have been alternating at Kuzma's position.

MINNEAPOLIS — The humbled, twice-defeated Minnesota squad bounced back today with a new spirit and a new backfield consisting of Bill Daley at right half, Herman Frickey at left half, Bill Garnaas at quarterback and Bob Kula, 200-pound sophomore at fullback. Garnaas, still suffering from a knee injury, was expected to start Saturday against Nebraska at Lincoln.

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. — Indiana built up a defense for the Pittsburgh game today after a long scrimmage with the freshmen using Panther plays. Place-kicking came in for considerable attention, with Lu Susan, Bill Hilbrand and Ed Bell doing the booting.

MADISON, Wis. — Coach Harry Stuhldreher expressed concern today over the wealth of backfield material on the Great Lakes squad as he pointed the Wisconsin Badgers for the Bluejackets game in Chicago. The Badgers went through an extensive drill against the Sailor's offense.

MENKE TO LEAVE CAGE JOB FOR FLYING POST

IOWA CITY, Ia., Oct. 14 — Bill Menke, all-American basketball star at Indiana university and a star of the Great Lakes quintet last season, appeared today to have severed connections with basketball for the duration.

Menke graduates from the Iowa naval pre-flight school this week without getting an opportunity to play with the Seahawk quintet.

Menke leaves Iowa City to take up naval flying instruction.

Saltcreek Valley

Wayne Francis and family who formerly lived on the Russell Jones farm in our valley have moved to Columbus where he will do defense work.

Saltcreek Valley — Mr. and Mrs. Kelly Hinton were the last Sunday guests at the home of Mrs. Jennie Strous and son Pearl.

Saltcreek Valley — Donald Waliser spent last Sunday with his friend Donald Strous and attended the show in Circleville in the p. m. at the Grand theatre.

Saltcreek Valley — Mrs. Frieda (Waliser) Collins is visiting her husband in Camp Crowder, Mo., for a couple of weeks.

Saltcreek Valley — Mr. and Mrs. Fred Strous of the "Eastern Border" entertained at their home at a six o'clock dinner the following invited guests: Rev. and Mrs. F. J. Heine and daughters Donna and Judy of Stoutsville, the Misses Lucille and Helen Aldenderfer, Mary Mowery, Mrs. Jennie Strous, Harry Kohler, Pearl Strous and Mr. and Mrs. O. S. Mowery.

Joe Can Remain Champ During War, Mike Says

By Jack Mahon
NEW YORK, Oct. 14 — Now that it has been definitely established, to the utter surprise of no one save an unemployed beaver operating just off the Aleutians, that Sgt. Joe Louis will not fight in the prize ring again unless the U. S. Army asks him to do so, there have been queries raised and suggestions made on the question of having a "heavyweight champion for the duration."

One gentleman suggested that we have a jolly little "champion-pretender" and several members of the managers union along Jacobs Beach are scouring the woods for broken down canvasback heavies of the past, who, because of dependents or old age, might be draft-deferred and eligible for some sort of a "duration" elimination tourney. That may sound like some of N. Y. Boxing Commission Chairman Gen. John J. Phelan's double-talk, but it's a fact.

We took this matter up with Promoter Mike Jacobs, head of the 20th Century Sporting club today, and the Mr. Big of the boxing business and he voted 100 percent against it.

"I am planning no heavyweight eliminations," said Uncle Michael. "As far as I am concerned Louis is the champion until he either retires officially or is beaten. He's the champion for the duration of the war."

Asked about the suggestion of President Abe Greene of the National Boxing association who thought his body should recognize the winner of a Bob Pastor-Tami Mauriello-Lee Savoldi elimination as "championship pretender," Mike said:

"What they want to do is their business. I am not interested in that kind of thing at this time. It is possible later, we may try and arrange series of heavyweight bouts but we can't take a fighter's title away from him while he is in the service."

Mike explained that the N. Y. Boxing Commission has a rule on its books to that effect.

"A couple of months ago we signed Ray Robinson and Freddie

Smallwood Appears Certain To Be At Fullback; Haley, Don Sowers In Action

Coach Roy Black has indicated in practice sessions this week that several changes may be made in his starting lineup Friday night when the Red and Black warriors take on Bremen's heavy varsity on the local gridiron.

Dud Smallwood, the squad's handy-andy, will likely be full-back, his line smashing in the Roseville game being about the nearest seen here in some time. Then, too, Smallwood is plenty tough defensively as a line backer.

By moving Smallwood to full, Tommy Shea can get back into his favorite left halfback slot. He runs better from the halfback post than he does from fullback, so this change should add to the Tigers' offensive. Carl Bach and Freck Heath will remain in the backfield.

With Smallwood at full, Haley will likely be at tackle. Don Sowers has been getting a lot of work at guard and so has Howard Moore since he overcame a knee injury. Co-captain Richard Wells remains at his tackle spot and Jim Dade and Dave Mader hang on to their end positions.

Bremen is reported to be bigger than any team the Tigers will play this year. The invaders have had a fair record, and may press the Red and Black the whole way. Last year the Tigers won by three touchdowns from the Fairfield county team getting all their points in the third period.

WEAK KICKING CAUSES IRISH MENTOR WORRY

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Oct. 14 — Punting weakness added another worry today for Ed McKeever who is coaching the Notre Dame Irish while Frank Leahy is in Mayo Clinic, Rochester, Minn., for a physical checkup. In preparation for Saturday's clash with the Iowa Seahawks, McKeever sent the Irish through an extensive punting drill. Creighton Miller, a good distance punter last year, has recovered sufficiently from a sprained ankle for kicking duties.

Bremen is reported to be bigger than any team the Tigers will play this year. The invaders have had a fair record, and may press the Red and Black the whole way. Last year the Tigers won by three touchdowns from the Fairfield county team getting all their points in the third period.

COUNTY SCHOOL CAR SITUATION TO BE STUDIED

Educators Faced By Problem With Athletic And Other System Activities

CONFERENCE DATE SET

Use Of Buses For Moving Of Teams Already Banned Under State Order

Pickaway county school administrators, seeing the growing transportation problem menacing their athletic and other programs during the remainder of the 1942-43 school year, have been called by Superintendent George D. McDowell to attend a conference in his office Monday at 4:15 p. m. At this time the various superintendents will discuss phases of the transportation problem and try to reach a decision concerning the basketball schedule.

Mr. McDowell said Wednesday that it is likely that the case schedule may be operated on a day to day basis, most of the school men favoring continuation of the schedule, which opens November 13, until restrictions on travel, such as gasoline rationing, become so severe that it is impossible to transport teams or their supporters to the various games.

Athletic Problem

Even now transportation of teams by school bus is banned, so that private cars must be used. Mr. McDowell believes that parents of the pupils participating in the various sports events will haul the teams until the gasoline rationing program prevents even that. When that time comes, he hinted, the interscholastic schedule of contests may be abandoned.

Already the pinch of transportation regulation has resulted in an outing for school pupils being cancelled. Schools of townships lettered beginning with N have been invited to send pupils to the Ohio State-Purdue football game Saturday, but Mr. McDowell said that no buses may be used for transportation of the youngsters. Recent rulings have banned use of the buses for such trips. Some private cars may be used to haul children to the Purdue game, however.

Hullabaloo Raised

Two weeks ago three county schools sent groups to the Ohio State-Indiana game on buses as guests of the university when the top half of the alphabet was invited. There was considerable hullabaloo about this, some state officials protesting use of the buses. At that time the only ruling Pickaway county rationing board had on school bus use was that vehicles which were using rationed tires could not be used for such purposes. Pickaway, Salt Creek and Darby township buses were used, and none of them has any rationed tires. However, the following day a ruling was broadcast that regardless of the source of tires on the buses they cannot be used for hauling children to athletic affairs. Pickaway and Salt Creek schools sent pupils to the Indiana game because the state invites the schools according to their post-office address. Pickaway getting its mail from Circleville and Salt Creek from Kingston, both post-offices being in the first half of the alphabet.

Many other counties also sent buses to the game.

ODT Director Joseph Eastman in a statement issued October 8 asked all school districts to survey their bus service at once to determine where curtailment can be made. He voiced his plea on the assumption that a physically able child can walk two miles to and from school where weather conditions permit.

Eastman said that the school buses must be used only in the actual transportation of pupils between their schools and homes and "obviously, this does not include the use of equipment for such events as athletic and music contests."

Pickaway county school authorities have already voted to abandon several events including the music festival and the county oratory contest.

WIDOW GETS ESTATE

Will of the late Willis Cave of Circleville leaves all his property valued at $5,960 to his widow, Mrs. Mary L. Cave. She is also appointed executrix.

FRANK C. SHARP TAKES POST ON SCHOOL BOARD

Frank C. Sharp, widely known Pickaway township farmer, accepted appointment Wednesday as a member of the Pickaway county board of education.

He succeeds Bernard W. Young, also of Pickaway township, who resigned because of ill health.

Mr. Sharp was chosen by remaining members of the board including C. E. Dick, Monroe township, president; J. F. Willis, Perry township, vice-president; Homer Reber, Walnut township, and Howard Huston, Washington township.

The new appointee's first meeting as a board member will be November 4.

Mr. Young resigned shortly after start of his ninth year as a member of the board.

The sale of Paints, Enamels, Varnishes, Brooms at reduced prices continues at Goeller's Paint Store. Extra special on First Grade Spar Varnish 25c pint.—ad.

Dr. Franklin McElfresh, of Columbus, former pastor of the Circleville Methodist church, is reported to be seriously ill in White Cross hospital, Columbus, suffering from bronchial pneumonia.

The Daughters of the Union Veterans will hold a Rummage sale in the Caskey building, Saturday, October 17.—ad.

County Commissioner C. E. Wright of Harrison township was unable to attend the commissioners' session Tuesday because of injuries suffered in a fall Monday at his home. Mr. Wright who is under the care of a physician cut his upper lip severely, hurt the back of his head, sprained his back and suffered a bruised thumb.

There will be a Turkey Supper at the Second Baptist Parish House, Thursday, October 15 for the benefit of the colored boys in the service. To help pack Christmas boxes for them. Price 50c. Will start serving at 5:30.—ad.

Harry E. Neal, chief engineer in the division of traffic and safety of the Ohio highway department, will speak Thursday noon at the Rotary club meeting in Pickaway Arms. "War Transportation Conservation" will be his subject.

Mrs. Charles Pugsley of Stoutsville pike was taken to Berger hospital Tuesday evening for medical treatment.

RAID WARDENS NEAR CLOSE OF GAS TRAINING

Air raid wardens serving the Circleville area will gather at the engine house for the second consecutive night Wednesday to complete their training under supervision of Acting Fire Chief Robert Wolf. Wednesday's session is for raid wardens only, although fire watchers and others are welcome to attend. Collective protection in case of gas raids will be discussed at the meeting which starts at 7 o'clock.

Ninety-eight persons were in the class conducted Tuesday evening by Mr. Wolf. Included were raid wardens, fire watchers and some members of the emergency drivers' corps. The acting chief discussed various war gas, how it can be identified, its effects and treatment of persons struck by it.

One hundred and eleven persons were present last Friday night when Mr. Wolf started instructing the raid wardens and fire watchers. Fire protection was outlined in the opening course.

Interest in the warden-watcher school has remained high, the courses being presented in an efficient manner.

of each other. Aircraft did all the damage.

Note: In the 1940 appropriation bill the Senate insisted on giving the Navy $40,000,000 for building small ships for anti-submarine warfare. The Admirals opposed the appropriation, and though the money was voted, they used almost none of it until this Spring. Our lack of small ships was why the submarines raised such havoc. Yet they say that military and naval men only should run the war.

When Henry J. Kaiser was in Washington recently he got word that his son Henry was ill. Henry, Jr., is manager of the Kaiser ship-building plant at Portland, Ore.

Kaiser phoned his son to go off to camp for a rest. But young Kaiser was worried. "Who'll run the yard?" he asked.

"Never mind about the yard," said Kaiser. "That yard will run itself—and do you know why? Because there isn't a damn soul on that yard who knows anything about shipbuilding."

IRON CLAD RED TAPE

Most famous residence in Washington is "Friendship," former home of the late Ned McClean, newspaper publisher, race track promoter and the friend of presidents. On the private golf course at Friendship, Warren G. Harding once took his exercise. At Friendship's dinner table have sat cabinet members, John L. Lewis, Lord Halifax, J. Edgar Hoover, senators, the elite of Washington society.

But now Friendship has been purchased by the Government, is being dismantled to make way for a new housing project. The private golf course is torn up. Lumber is piled beside the marble statues. But the massive gates at the entrance still hang.

Weighing twenty tons, they would be a nice contribution to the scrap iron drive. But they cannot be removed—thanks to red tape. Mrs. McClean, owner of the Hope Diamond, would like to see them turned into scrap iron. So would Lessing Rosenwald, head of the Conservation Division. But red tape stands in the way.

Here is what happened. Fred Eberstadt, new dynamic Vice-chairman of WPB, telephoned Rosenwald one morning. "Let's get those Friendship gates," he said.

Rosenwald agreed and assigned an able assistant, Shipley Troth, to the task. Troth got in touch with the District of Columbia salvage committee, headed by Horace Walker. He found Walker had already obtained a release for the gates, as part of the D. C. salvage drive.

Scrap dealer Joseph Smith sent his men to "Friendship" to dismantle the famous portals. But when the crew arrived, the housing project manager said the gates had been assigned to the U. S. Treasury's Procurement Division for scrap purposes.

Two days passed. Eberstadt called Rosenwald again. "What about those gates?" insisted go-getter Eberstadt. Rosenwald prodded Troth again. Troth found that the Treasury had consigned the gates to the Navy Department for scrap.

The Navy, however, moves slowly. Troth has now asked Procurement Director Clifton Mack to switch the gates back from Navy to District salvage.

But this takes time. So the gates still stand in their august place, majestically guarding a private golf course which is now a mass of ruts, and marble figures of Napoleon gazing in horror at a scene reminiscent of a gold rush camp.

Some day, when the red tape is finally cut, the gates will go to the scrap heap.

GRUBB HELD IN GUARDHOUSE AT COLUMBUS FORT

Army authorities at Fort Hayes, Columbus, said Wednesday that Daniel E. Grubb, 23, of Circleville, who claims to be a Jehovah's Witness, is being held in the fort guardhouse pending his removal before the end of the week to Fort Benjamin Harrison, Ind. He will face charges of failure to report following his induction into the Army.

Grubb was inducted into the Army in Columbus and was ordered to Fort Benjamin Harrison following a 14-day furlough. His failure to report resulted in his arrest Saturday by Sheriff Charles Radcliff following a request by Army officials.

Fort Hayes officers said Fort Benjamin Harrison officials had jurisdiction in the case since it was to that station that Grubb was ordered to report.

GODDARD WILL CONTEST HEARING STARTS MONDAY

Trial of the Ella Goddard will contest before a jury will start Monday at 9 a. m. in Pickaway county Common Pleas court with Judge Meeker Terwilliger presiding. The trial involved an estate of about $30,000. It is styled Ellen Root Danis and others against Fred P. Griner, executor of the estate. There are 22 other plaintiffs and seven other defendants. Judge Terwilliger said Wednesday that six attorneys will appear in the action.
